Information:

There are three types of identification cards:

- Diplomatic (blue border for diplomats)
- Official (green border for employees)
- Consular (red border for consular personnel)

Cards are 3¾" x 2½" and contain a photo of the bearer. The bearer's name, title, mission, city and state, date of birth, identification number, expiration date, and a U.S. Department of State seal appears on the front of the card. A brief statement of the bearer's immunity is printed on the reverse side.

Definitions:

Diplomatic Immunity - full or limited criminal immunity which the personnel of a foreign diplomatic mission and, in varying degrees, their family members enjoy because they serve as representatives of a sovereign state and require special rights and guarantees for the effective functioning of the mission.

Diplomatic Agents - a term embracing heads of missions, ambassadors, and charge d'affaires, and members of their diplomatic staff.

Administrative and Technical Staff - this category includes secretaries, clerical personnel, office managers, and certain professional security personnel. These persons also enjoy a high level of privilege, but somewhat less than diplomatic agents.

Service Staff - theses persons are drivers, cleaners, and building/grounds personnel. They have much less in the way of immunity.

Consular Officers - are not to be confused with diplomatic agents and do not enjoy the privileges and immunities.

Special Bilateral Agreements - there are some foreign countries in respect of which the categories set above are not applicable. These are countries with which the United States has bilateral agreements which grant significantly higher privileges and immunities to all members of their embassy staffs and sometimes their family members.

Purpose:

To comply with federal laws regulating diplomatic immunity through the delivery of fair and impartial police services.

Establish Division procedure for dealing with diplomatic immunity. It is understood that dealing with diplomatic immunity poses particular problems for law enforcement officers in applying immunity if they do not understand it's purposes or rules.

Policy:

It is imperative that officers perform good investigations, keep good records, and report whatever appropriate, to the State Department. This allows the State Department to exercise the tools it has to remove individuals from the U.S. who are engaged in criminal activity or to revoke the driving privileges from individuals who repeatedly violate the traffic code.

Procedure:

- A. Claims of Diplomatic Immunity:
 - 1. When proper I.D. is shown and status is verified, officers will fully respect the immunity.
 - 2. If a person claims immunity and cannot show proper I.D. during an incident that would normally require arrest or detention, or an officer believes invalid I.D. is being presented, inform the person that he/she will be held in custody until proper identity can be confirmed.
